31st August 2011

Zurich, Switzerland – SIX Telekurs has added 35 sources of real-time market data from global exchanges, institutional contributors and financial news providers since the beginning of 2011. This expansion of services brings better access to market information in the Middle East and North Africa, Asia, Eastern Europe and Northern Europe.

The additional real-time sources, which include upgraded services that had previously carried end-of-day prices only, encompass 27 exchanges and multi-lateral trading facilities (MTFs), 5 contributor services and 3 financial news providers. This expansion of the SIX Telekurs real-time database coincides with the release of new features for the Telekurs iD desktop service and for IPS, the intra-day pricing service.

“As investors broaden their global horizons in the search for new opportunities and higher risk adjusted returns it is imperative that SIX Telekurs maintain a continuous program of content enhancement and expansion,” explained Alexandra Karg, Head of Data Operations at SIX Telekurs. “We collaborate with first rate financial experts in our client community to ensure that our services meet the evolving demands of the industry,” added Karg.
