Zurich, Switzerland – SIX Telekurs is launching a new version of its Telekurs iD display product. Version 8.3 includes an optimized data offering and additional functions. The updated product focuses on the various needs of specialists in the financial industry even more than before. The user can now choose one of the four information packages, depending on his or her needs.

Telekurs iD is an intelligent tool for professionals in the financial sector. The modular information product focuses on the needs of securities processing agents, investment advisors, wealth managers, risk managers and asset managers. With these four new packages, Telekurs iD.8.3 optimises SIX Telekurs' existing product range.

The Wealth Management Package is designed to meet the needs of financial advisors and asset managers. The emphasis is on information that provides optimal support for investment decisions, as well as on ensuring that data can be accessed wherever the user may be.

The Reference Package is particularly suited to users in the securities management sector. This package has a user-friendly and powerful search function for securities, prospectus data, information about prices and previous or pre-announced events. The package also offers data which enables transactions executed to be checked against regulatory requirements. The content of the Reference Package also supports the valuation of assets according to various criteria.

The Treasury & Risk Package is aimed at users in the trading and risk management sectors. The emphasis is on the type of data used for simulating risk exposure. Also, the package helps users check their activities in light of current regulations.

The Asset Management Package contains the most features. It contains all of the data and functions included in the other three packages as well as an extended news service and additional corporate key figures.

Reto Künzle, Head of Product Management Display at SIX Telekurs, sums up the benefits of the newly-structured product as follows: "Against the background of SIX Telekurs' huge data offering and thanks to intelligent linking, the modular Telekurs iD 8.3 tool offers flexible support to all segments of the financial sector, whether front, middle or back office. The new packages meet the expectations and needs that clients place on our display product. Telekurs iD 8.3 simplifies working processes – a big plus point for professionals in the financial industry."
